

Two Presentations Close Series Fare

By Elaine Melchert

Two remaining Artist Series performances are on the immediate agenda, one just previous to semester finals and the other immediately following exam week.

The Canadian Players will present Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" on Jan. 19, and on Jan. 30 a vocal duo, Richard Lewis and Jennie Tourel, will make its appearance. Both programs are at 8 p.m. in the chapel-auditorium.

Founded in 1954 to bring drama to the Canadian countryside, the Players first gained American favor by appearing on the television program "Omnibus."

THE COMPANY LATER divided into two groups. This year one group is presenting "Julius Caesar" and Shaw's "Saint Joan." Shakespeare's "The Tempest" and Bertolo Brecht's "The Caucasian Chalk Circle" are being presented by the other group.

Though the original cast of "Julius Caesar" had many characters, this production has been shaped to fit ten men and two women. The Players use the "bare boards" style of production which lacks heavy costuming and great crowds on the stage.

CANADIAN PLAYERS were the first recipients of a substantial grant by the Canada Council, which gives aid to the most deserving of its country's cultural endeavors.

Director for this season is Britain's Denis Carey. Carey is regarded as one of the top directors in today's theatre. Producer of "Julius Caesar" is

Lewis

Douglas Campbell, one of the two founders of the company.

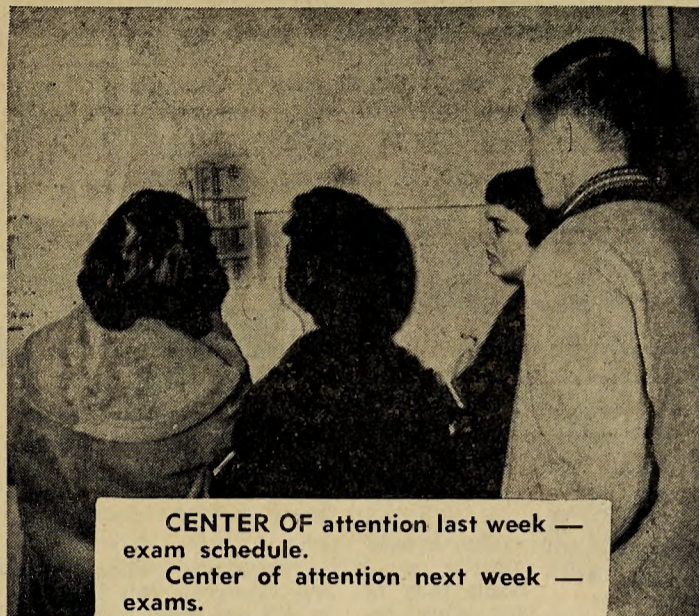

Featured for the Jan. 30 Artist Series are Richard Lewis and Jennie Tourel.

A MEZZO-SOPRANO, Miss Tourel has appeared in Europe nine times, South America twice, Israel four times and South Africa plus her U. S. appearances.

During the past year she has appeared on television three times with conductor Leonard Bernstein. Miss Tourel premiered his "Jeremiah" Symphony in Pittsburgh, and Bernstein has written two song cycles for her.

Coming to Wartburg directly from London, where he is scheduled to solo with the British Broadcasting Company Symphony, is Richard Lewis.

CENTER OF attention last week — exam schedule.
Center of attention next week — exams.

3 Of Faculty To Take Semester Leaves

Three members of the Wartburg faculty will be on leave of absence next semester.

Ronald Matthias of the History Department will complete his doctorate in history at the University of Chicago.

Replacing him will be G. Rudolph Bjorgan, on leave of absence the first semester doing research for his dissertation at the University of Minnesota.

Wendell Liemohn, Physical Education Department, will go to the State University of Iowa for graduate work in physical education.

Dr. Edwin Liemohn, head of the Wartburg Music Department, will spend second semester in Europe.

Author of two previously published books on church music, "The Chorale" and "The Singing Church," Dr. Liemohn plans to do research for another book on the subject of the choir and organ in the Protestant Church.

Accompanied by his wife, he will fly from New York and arrive in Bergen, Norway, where his European journey will begin Feb. 5.

At Bergen, as well as throughout the rest of his European travels, Dr. Liemohn will meet with church musicians to get a complete picture of current practices in church music. He will also visit a number of libraries.

Besides Norway, Dr. Liemohn and his wife will tour Sweden,

Denmark, Switzerland, Austria, England, Scotland, Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium and possibly Paris, France.

Emphasis Week Slated Feb. 5-10

Spiritual Emphasis Week will be held on campus Feb. 5-10.

Centered on the theme "Satisfied with Christ," the week will especially emphasize dormitory discussion groups, according to Chaplain Herman Diers. The main speaker will be Arndt Halvorson, Luther Seminary, St. Paul, Minn.

Paper Skips

Hear ye! Hear ye! All avid Trumpet readers, please take notice. There will be no Trumpet issued for the next two weeks.

Reason? The editor says that the contract calls for only 30 issues, so if two aren't skipped now, two will have to be skipped some other time. Add to this the mortifying fact that exams overlap two weekends.

All this means we won't be seeing you again until Feb. 4.

Two Attending Business Managers Meeting

Wartburg College is represented by two staff members at a meeting of college business managers of The American Lutheran Church this Friday and Saturday.

H. C. Engelbrecht, assistant

Meeting, Religion On Convo Docket

Student body and faculty meetings and a religious service are scheduled for next week's convocation program.

There will be no convocation during the week of the final examinations, according to the Rev. Herman Diers, college chaplain.

Student body and faculty meetings will take place on Tuesday. The last worship service for this semester will be Thursday, led by the Rev. Robert Dell, member of the Christianity Department.

to the president, and Miss Eldora Flugga, treasurer, are attending the meeting in the Curtis Hotel, Minneapolis, Minn.

Purpose of the meeting is to discuss uniform procedures to put all TALC colleges on common ground, according to Engelbrecht.

Ten Lutheran colleges will be represented at the meeting.

Dr. Turner Spends Christmas Vacation In South America Doing Fish Research

Izaak Walton had nothing on Dr. Clarence Turner, Wartburg visiting professor of biology. During Christmas vacation, Dr. Turner went fishing — in South America.

Research on endocrinology as related to control of reproduction in fish that bear live young was the object of his trip to British Guiana.

With the help of four natives, Dr. Turner collected 60 specimens in two days, dissecting them to obtain the reproductive organs.

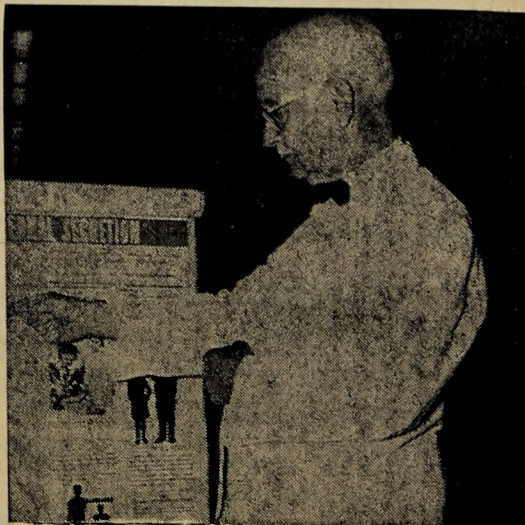

He also trained one of the men to dissect, preserve and send him the necessary materials every month. The research requires observation on the influence of seasonal changes.

Not alone in his research, Dr. Turner has collaborators in England, Germany, Holland and Japan. A steady stream of mail flows among them.

The trip to British Guiana was a head start on work which he will continue at his laboratory in Evanston, Ill., when he returns from teaching in June.

Since he retired five years ago, Dr. Turner has held visiting professorships at Loyola University School of Medicine and at Drake University, in addition to Wartburg the past two years.

After completion of the coming semester, he will work full-time on research.

THE TRAVELING Dr. Turner studies a chart about gland secretions, the subject that took him to South America during Christmas vacation.

Senate Will Decide On Concert Mon.

Because the inadequate number of signatures on the sign-up sheets did not guarantee student support, the question as to whether to plan a pops concert has not yet been decided.

The Student Senate will take definite action next Monday evening.

Hanneman On Council

Junior Dick Hanneman was elected Tuesday to fill the church council vacancy caused by senior Cathy Carr's graduation at semester.

Louis Armstrong was selected as the favored pops attraction by a student poll in convocation before Christmas. He would be able to appear on Thursday, April 13.

TICKETS FOR admission will be priced at two dollars.

Students who supported the concert through the sign-up sheets are urged by the Student Body Pres. Fred Mai to remember their obligation to attend if the concert passes Senate approval.

Final decision will be announced at the student body meeting next Tuesday during convocation hour. The student body project will also be discussed at this meeting.

AT ITS MEETING last Monday evening, the Senate accepted the constitution of the Physical Education Club, newly organized on campus. This club will draw its membership from physical education majors and minors.

Work was also started on the calendar for the school year 1961-62. This will be continued at the next Senate meeting.

Squad Travels To Cornell For Cross-Exam Tourney

Wartburg debaters are traveling to Cornell College, Mount Vernon, where they will participate in a cross-examination debate tournament today.

Junior Al Putz and freshman Bill Boettcher will debate on the affirmative side while freshmen Stan Lillich and Jim Riesberg debate on the negative.

The question for debate is: Should the federal government provide compulsory health insurance for its citizens?

Two Wartburg debate teams each won one debate and lost six at Illinois State Normal University Jan. 6-7.

One team, composed of freshmen Stan Lillich and Mark Geddes, won one debate. The other team, freshmen Jim Riesberg and Bill Boettcher, won one debate and received a bye on the other.

The bye counted as a win for them in the final judging because it indicated that their opponents had forfeited the debate.

Boettcher received an excellent rating in extemporaneous speaking.

School Gets Designation

The State Department of the federal government designated Wartburg College as a member of the Exchange-Visitor Program last Sept. 30.

This is the first time Wartburg has received this designation. Pres. C. H. Becker was appointed its responsible officer at Wartburg.

The program is to provide courses of undergraduate study for specially selected and qualified foreign students as part of a two-way exchange of students to promote the general interests of international academic exchange.

Only students from West Germany are eligible to participate in this program. They attend college in this country for one year.

Kristian Mueller, exchange student from Bonn University, is presently attending Wartburg in connection with this program.

When Others Act, Think!

Students are making headlines these days. Just this week full-scale riots broke out at Iowa State University, Ames, and the University of Georgia, Athens. Discrimination seemed to be involved in each one.

The situation at Iowa State, instigated, according to the editor of the school paper, by a vociferous minority, was touched off by the recent arrest of a former Puerto Rican student under a seldom-used curfew law.

The enrollment of two Negro students at the University of Georgia, the first educational integration at any level in the state, caused the other riot. What started out as a commendable example of integration ended with the suspension of the Negro students involved.

Judgment from the outside is a presumption. An outsider — or for that matter an insider — cannot hope to know all the intertwining reasons, emotions, causes and effects going into a situation that erupts in a riot.

But we cannot avoid forming opinions. If we were suddenly transplanted from Wartburg College to Ames or Athens, what would we do? Would we join the rioters? Would we act against them? Would we hide in the closet?

Those questions — and their answers — are not as hypothetical as they may seem. In a few years we will be transplanted into the world. So will the students from Ames and Athens.

Only last year an editorial decrying student apathy in the United States when compared to action taken by the students of Hungary, for example, appeared in the Trumpet.

Judging from the number of college riots reported in the papers during the past semester, this complaint is no longer valid. College students are acting.

Their actions should be evaluated by other students. They should be evaluated by you.

Let's Learn Lounge Loving

Every college needs a Fuchs Lounge. Where else can so much vicarious experience be gained? Higher education should include knowledge in all fields. Unfortunately, for one reason or another, not all Wartburg students are dating.

However, this deficiency can be readily remedied by auditing the course in Fuchs Lounge. The only prerequisite is a strong stomach.

The popularity of the course is shown by its increased enrollment. So many people have joined as participants that the classroom has been expanded to include the whole north end of the main lounge. This is actually an advantage because more students can audit.

In fact, the whole college audits the course. For that matter, a surprisingly large number of visitors on campus involuntarily join the throng of auditors, too.

What should be a private honors course becomes a public farce. And it is a well-known fact that the participants don't get any credit for their work.

It certainly does give the Wartburg family that feeling of togetherness, though.

The most frequently asked question this time of year seems to be "What kind of a semester does Prof. So-and-So give?"

Ever have the feeling that whoever set up the test schedule had something against you? Tests spread out so that you don't have time for a break, but one test late on the last day, and your two worst tests back to back on the same day.

Kennedy Inauguration Viewed As Start Of Liberal-Conservative Congress Fight

By Bill Goetz

As the day of President-elect Kennedy's inauguration draws closer, many observers are predicting that Jan. 20 will initiate a period of intensive effort.

The new president, his administration and his supporters in Congress are expected to try to overcome the block of conservative congressmen and senators and to succeed in obtaining the passage of a great deal of liberal legislation in a short time.

EVEN THOUGH the margin of Kennedy's election victory was small, there are definite indications that more progress in furthering the welfare state in America may result than in any other period of our history, with the exception of the depression period of the 1930's.

Many men are sincerely convinced that a large step can be taken toward the solution of many of our national problems if the government will raise the minimum wage still further, guarantee medical aid for the aged, provide more and more federal funds for education on all levels.

WITH SUCH legislation the government will provide more federal funds to aid more groups of citizens.

The outcome of the new conflict in the long-standing battle between liberals and conservatives in our Congress will have far-reaching consequences. No matter which way the struggle is resolved, the legislation that results will be of importance to each U.S. citizen and his pocketbook.

IT IS NOW up to each of us to decide whether or not the benefits of such legislation are offset by the increase in the power of the federal government which will result from increased control of the economy provided for in the bills sponsored by the liberals.

Ultimately, we must also decide whether it makes a difference if the results of Christian love can be obtained through the direction of our tax money into the proper channels by the government.

It would have been much more convenient for the Good Samaritan, and less expensive for him as well, if he could have taken the unfortunate man he found robbed and beaten to a nearby government-sponsored health center.

Goetz

Briner

Knights 'n' Daze

Less than a week from today the United States will have a new President. Only time will tell how bad or how good he will be. We had better hope that he's plenty good, for on Jan. 20 John Kennedy will inherit a whole bonnetful of problems.

Not the least of these problems will be the sizeable group of arch-conservatives in our federal government. It is easy to laugh at Silent Cal Coolidge, who used to run around the White House turning off lights in the interest of government economy, or at Bob Taft, who said that the way to beat rising food prices was to eat less.

However, the problem is not so laughable when people of like sentiments are running a 20th-century government. Here, for instance, are a few of the notables in the congress now convening:

BARRY GOLDWATER: The Senator claims that the liberals have sold America down the river. Hubert Humphrey remarked recently that Goldwater is so handsome he's been offered a long-term contract by 18th Century Fox.

JAMES EASTLAND: This mental midget, who calls the Supreme Court a pit of vipers, is chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee! He seems to prefer lynch law to the constitutional variety.

H. R. GROSS: Iowa's own pride and joy, the prairie penny-pincher, has voted for every piece of pork-barrel legislation and against every foreign aid bill introduced in 20 years. He is said to favor matrimony, motherhood and prohibition — and to oppose everything else.

HERMAN TALMADGE: This overweight Georgia cracker opposed integrated federal housing projects, saying that no sane person would invite a hog into his living room, so why a Negro?

Talmadge can usually be found lowering his massive face into a massive plate of corn pone and pork chitterlings at White America First picnics.

JACK MILLER: The Hawkeye state boasts another candidate for this Washington honor roll. Senator Miller endeared himself to students everywhere by saying that he "most certainly" opposed teaching communism in our schools.

The purpose of public education, quoth he, is not to turn our children into Reds. Such sagacious insight has been missing from Capitol Hill since the Great Spirit called Joe McCarthy to the Happy Witch-Hunting Grounds.

One can only hope that President Kennedy will be able to reconcile these worthies with the 20th century.

Axmen Play BV After Loss

By Paul Baumgarten

Wartburg Knights take on Buena Vista College of Storm Lake tonight after dropping a thriller Wednesday to Gustavus Adolphus.

The BV Beavers are led by Jim Ahrens, a junior who last night shoved his point total over the 1,000 mark. His hot shooting has given him national recognition.

BV has a talented freshman performer in guard Keith Stroup and a much improving rebounder in Sandeen, a 6'6" center. In some circles the Beavers are considered the conference's fastest improving team.

WEDNESDAY evening Wartburg lost a thriller in overtime by a 72-70 score to Gustavus Adolphus.

Knights were leading by as many as 12 points before seeing victory dwindle and finally disappear in the last two minutes.

In the closing moments of the regulation game the Knights had a chance to win, but a shot went wide and the game went into the overtime.

During the opening minutes of the overtime, the Knights and Gusties traded baskets. Gustavus then opened a 71-67 lead and later held a similar four-point margin at 72-68.

WARTBURG THEN narrowed the gap to two points and had a crack to tie the score with five seconds remaining, but the final shot missed.

The entire overtime period was marred by mistakes by both teams, including traveling violations and stolen passes.

WARTBURG'S DAVE Jensen really leans into his work as he attempts to get by an opponent in Wednesday night's game. The Knights lost to Gustavus Adolphus in overtime.

Don Hein was high scorer for Wartburg with 35 points.

Monday evening the Axmen go on the road again as they move to Fayette to take on the Upper Iowa Peacocks.

UPPER IOWA has been very successful thus far this season, largely without the services of its last year's star, Mike Scott, out with a hand injury.

Even without him Upper Iowa has posted an average of 84.6 points a game in its first eight games. In the conference thus far it has a 4-2 record.

Next Friday, Wartburg again plays the Simpson Redmen in a last effort before semester exams.

IN A PREVIOUS encounter, despite a bad evening, the Knights managed to eke out a victory by a 56-49 score.

The outcome of last Saturday's game was largely determined by the sole scoring efforts of Bob Tidgren against the more balanced attack of the Knights.

Wartburg had two men in double figures, Don Hein with 20 and Dave Jensen with 18. The Axmen also led in the highly important area of rebounding, high man for the Knights again being Hein.

CHALK TALK

By Tom Kuckkahn

The Axmen can't seem to get overtime games out of their system. Wednesday night's extra five-minute feature was the fourth time this year that the Knights were involved in an overtime contest. However, it was the first time they dropped the decision.

Don Hein, Wartburg's scoring leader, had just cause to display the self-dejection which he did when he missed two free throws. Don is presently striving to remain high among the scoring leaders in U.S. colleges.

Latest ratings show Don ranked second in the nation among free-throw percentage leaders, according to statistics from the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

At that time he had converted 26 of 27 for an excellent .963 percentage. Since then he has hit on 16 of 19.

Hein was also listed 28th in the nation among individual scoring leaders. Wednesday night he tied the field-goals-per-game record of 16 set by Bill Adix during the '52-'53 season.

Many fans at Wednesday night's game remarked about the marked calmness of Gustavus' coach, rarely seen in close college basketball games. The coach was Whitey Skoog, one of the greatest guards in NBA history, who quite understandably is well accustomed to pressure on the basketball court.

Tip for those of you planning on raising your gradepoint second semester: Study hard during the day because the evenings will soon be packed with excitement as the Knights, currently tied for first place in the conference, begin the difficult part of their schedule. They must play Luther, Parsons and Upper Iowa University twice. All the games appear to be toss-ups.

The IM committee is beginning work on an activity of interest to all coed bowling fans. Plans have not been completed, but it appears that Saturday afternoons will be the time and The Waverly Bowl Inn the place.

The Physical Education Department is getting into the writing and publishing business. It is putting out a paper called "The Battle Axe," which is sent to all Wartburg grads who majored or minored in P.E.

Cruising Around

By Carr

I feel as if I should say something very, very profound in this my last contribution to the literary life of Wartburg, but after being here almost four years, I've become so bound by tradition that all I can think of is "Hi!"

And just for the record, it isn't the case that I've been here six years and am finally finishing. Actually, I'm flunking bridge instruction, and there's just nothing to stay on for.

It looks as if every organization is getting in a last get-together before finals.

LSA is meeting Sunday night in the Little Theater at 7. Topic is "Religious Expression on Our Campus."

Monday night Mission Fellowship will be found in Clinton Hall Lounge at 7:30.

And SEA is meeting Tuesday night at 7:15.

The Aviation Club will be in their hangar in the Audio-Visual room Tuesday night at 7.

Alpha Phi Gamma will eat together in the small dining room at 5:45 p.m. Tuesday.

For everyone on campus is the Artist Series Thursday night, followed by a coffee hour. Et tu, Brute??

Sophomore class members are playing cupid this Valentine's Day. They're sponsoring a dress-up dance Feb. 10, with the Eddie Skay band. So make plans to hop on the "Valentine Carousel."

Don't let studying keep you away from food! Sunday night, Jan. 22, the Republicrats (figure that one out) are sponsoring a pancake supper in the cafeteria. Serving begins at 5 and lasts until 6.

Don't look behind you now, but a Trumpet Talent Scout may be watching you read this. If you would like to carry on the tradition of this column, whatever that may be, or if you have a deep, hidden desire to be a columnist, even a back-page one, he may be looking for you. It especially helps if you have a different sort of name. In case your name is Snorkel, they could call the column "Snooping With Snorkel." And don't worry about your picture. They print it, regardless.

Good luck to everyone next semester. BYE.

Collegians May Enter Poetry Contests

Three contests, two in poetry and one in light verse, are open to all college students attending schools in the state of Iowa.

The first contest is sponsored by the Iowa Poetry Association. Requirements for eligibility demand entries to be original, unpublished and not more than 16 lines.

WINNING ENTRIES will be awarded cash prizes and will appear in the Association's annual publication, "Lyrical Iowa." Entries should be sent to Eleanor Miller, Leon.

The second contest is being offered in conjunction with the Iowa Poetry Association and sponsored by column-writer Harlan Miller of the Des Moines Register. Awards of $15, $10 and $5 for light, humorous or topical verse of four to six lines will go to these winners.

A THIRD CONTEST, sponsored by the Iowa Poetry Day Association, requires that entries be not over 20 lines, original, typed double-spaced on standard typing paper and accompanied with a duplicate.

Name and address of author, name of school and name of instructor should be placed in the upper left-hand corner of the entry. Winners will receive certificates of award, and their winning entries will appear in the Association's brochure. Entries should be sent to Fred R. Prusha, Little Cedar. Deadline for this contest is Feb. 25.

Wartburg students may enter any of the above contests by leaving their entries with Mrs. Margaret Garland, English and Journalism Department, Publications Office, or they may submit their entries personally. Mrs. Garland is area chairman of the contests.

Junior Recital Tomorrow Will Feature Schrage, Niehaus In Vocal Selections

Carol Schrage, mezzo-soprano, and Jo Anne Niehaus, soprano, will give their junior recital tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the chapel-auditorium.

Miss Schrage will sing "The Time For Making Songs Has Come" by Rogers, "O del mio dolce ardor" by Gluck, "He Was Alone" by Paxon, Dvorak's "God Is My Shepherd," Mozart's "Alleluja," "Mondnacht" by Schumann, Schubert's "Der Tod und das Madchen" and "The Lemon-Colored Dodo" by Mopper.

Schrage

Miss Niehaus will sing "Rugladio, Odorose" by A. Scarlotti, "Invocazione di Orfeo" by Petri, Carissimi's "No, no, non si spera," Dubois' "Introduction," The Seven Last Words of Christ.

Niehaus

Brahm's "Vergebliches standchen," "Chartless" by Freed, Naginski's "The Pasture," "American Lullaby" by Rich and "Let My Song Fill Your Heart" by Charles.

Pianists Phyllis Remmers, sophomore, and Allen Mardorf, freshman, will accompany.
